

ABSTRACT

A method for aligning an image to be recorded by a direct image scanner on an upper layer of a printed circuit board with an image recorded on a lower layer thereof, the method comprising:

- 5 visually imaging a portion of the image on the lower layer; and
- recording a pattern on the upper layer, referenced to coordinates of the visual image of the portion.